

ASN Scavenger Hunt

*one person per category

*Introduce yourself, or better, post a selfie to Instagram or Twitter with #AmNat2020

- Past President of ASN
- Current President of ASN
- Current Editor-in-Chief of Am Nat
- Past Editor-in-Chief of Am Nat
- Any editor at Am Nat
- Anybody who has reviewed an Am Nat paper
- Somebody who has published a paper about fish
- Somebody who has published a paper about birds
- Somebody who has published a paper about plants
- Somebody who has published a paper about invertebrates
- A theoretical ecologist
- A piece of advice from a faculty member
- A piece of advice from a post-doc
- A piece of advice from a student
- Your scientific role model
- Somebody who authored a paper the year you were born
- A story of failure from somebody older than you...and how they overcame it
- Somebody who has been to Antarctica
- Somebody whose field research is outside North America
- Ask somebody with a PhD who works outside academia how they got their job
- Somebody whose Bachelor's degree was not in a scientific discipline

- Ask somebody who was in Marching Band whether they still play their instrument
- A collegiate athlete
- Somebody who has been on TV talking about science
- Somebody who has been on TV for a non-science reason
- Somebody who has run a marathon
- Somebody who is giving a Symposium talk
- Ask a student to explain their research to you
- Ask a question at a poster
- Welcome somebody to their first ASN meeting
- Thank somebody who is retired or retiring soon
- Find a first year faculty member and tell them they're doing a good job
- Introduce yourself to somebody presenting at the exact same time as you